Return to Private School Threat to the Establishment and the Best Antidote to the Racial Crisis

The School Crisis

By CARL LYONS

Debunking the school crisis for fear of erupting enmity is a lot of hogwash. The switch by invective liberals, the display of words in a railing denunciation is merely wrist slapping as a re-directed effort to fog the pattern in a political seduction. With the admission of their guilt by northern liberals is just another example of "monumental hypocrisy" and reflects no genuine concern for the real problems in racial polarization, such as aggravated assault, spontaneous violence and the actual feelings of the South in regard to these matters. Philosophic therapy, suggesting that men should be better than the laws they make is simply a formality for diffusing the truth, and it adds to the curse of ignorance that has long been a weakness of the white society.

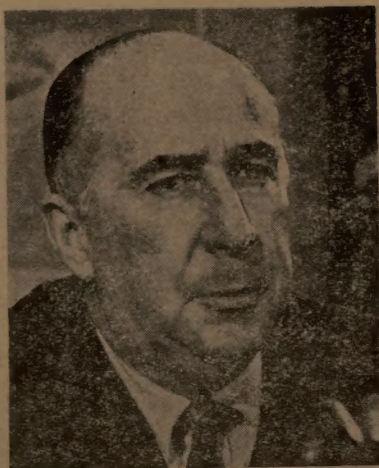

The real threat to SOCIALIZATION is the return to fundamental studies in the PRIVATE SCHOOL SYSTEM. Here is where the Christian symbol finds reality in character moulding, with eminence in moral and ethical definition for quantum spiritual attainment. Whereas, the vital role in PUBLIC EDUCATION stresses key importance of ideological indoctrination in social studies affecting humanities, corporate power, government control, power in the courts, self-imposed surrender to eminent domain, and other issues which effectually extrude the non-plus citizen of tomorrow. The conflict is the product, the minds and souls of 97 million young Americans under the twenty six year old age bracket. Hence, the POWER STRUCTURE cannot risk the regenerated spirit of a Christian nation by PRIVATE SCHOOL SYSTEMS.

Paul Scott in his column 3/13/70 states: "BIG BROTHER" HAS NEW PLAN FOR CHILDREN. "The developing role government should play in shaping the minds and bodies of the nation's children and youth is about to take a unique turn. Under the guise of improving the health of those under 21, a nationwide campaign is being launched for the establishment of a "national child advocacy system" to lobby for and help develop a new kind of society. . . . Legislation to establish the controversial national child advocacy system will be pushed by Senator Abraham Ribicoff (D. Conn.), former Secretary of Department of Health, Education and Welfare, during the Kennedy administration."

The crafty attempt by Senator Abraham Ribicoff to out-Stennis Mississippi's Senator Stennis is a parody of President Nixon out-Wallacing Mr. Wallace in the drive to capture the presidential election.

An example of the "STOP WALLACE" operation is seen in President Nixon's "voucher system" as economic assistance in a "freedom-of-choice" ballyhoo that has effectively advanced the Wallace image. Economic aid to distressed taxpayers from HEW by a voucher system is simply another form of control, with designated schools redeeming the vouchers, much the same as the system of "food stamps" from the OEO are redeemable with designated merchants.

"While Kissinger is selling out the country, Mitchell is integrating it, and Finch is socializing it, Spiro Agnew goes about making speeches to the yokels who cheer loudly." — The Washington Observer, Dec. 15, 1969.

In his State-of-the-Union message, directed to the American mass, we see badger styling identified in Nixon's "secret weapon" idea, with emphasis on "the confidence of the American people."

The court of last resort is always the people: whether they are led or driven by political drovers, the trick is to prevent a stampede. Spiro Agnew's "Silent Majority" expression is coined phraseology written by his ghost writer, the Jewess, Cynthia Rosenwald. The WASHINGTON OBSERVER 12/15/69 states: "Few people have ever heard of Cynthia Rosenwald, although she is a writer of those carefully thought out speeches Vice President Agnew has been making. Agnew's conservative-sounding speeches are the Nixon Administration's greatest asset. While Kissinger is selling out the country, Mitchell is integrating it, and Finch is socializing it, Spiro Agnew goes about making speeches to the yokels who cheer loudly." COMMON SENSE suggests the "silent majority" should be read "restless majority."

Images ascending and descending on

The Newsweek Magazine which is a part of the Establishment is controlled by the New York cabal and the news media mind-washing machine, but the first paragraph of its main editorial which appeared on page 108 for Feb. 23, 1970 is quite revealing: "The time has come to face up to a fact that can no longer be hidden from view. The attempt to integrate this country's schools is a tragic failure."

Jacob's Ladder, veiled in the tone and content of the Cronkite-CBS complex, the ABC, and the NBC newscasting take on a modified accent to formal argument as the new decade of the 70's reshapes a "new image" from the past decade of the 60's. The weekly programs of MEET THE PRESS, FACE THE NATION, QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS show a decline in abrasive speech that attempts to wear down by irritation those who appear on the program. The task of reconciling the American white society is important in the months ahead for the Jews to maintain the gains the Zionist-Communist Party now hold, thus, the bleating ethos in pious phraseology is injected into the mainstream of daily affairs by semantics to diminish the controversy. This comes directly from the PROTOCOLS OF THE LEARNED ELDERS OF ZION. Item 5, Protocol XIII states: "When we come into our kingdom our orators will expound great problems which will turn humanity upside down in order to bring it at an end under our beneficent rule."

The dramatic support of Senator Jacob Javits and other negrophile emphasizing Senator Ribicoff's stand on "misdirected effort" by northern liberals refesters the social malignancy of a century. Calling for a moratorium to constrain the "restless society" is a ritualistic offering in forbearance as an object lesson for the white society to esteem Jewish sympathies, and to create a conscientious obligation by the white society for moral and economic support for Israel in their conflict against the Arab states. CBS featured Walter Cronkite newscast 3/9/70 with an American flag backdrop superimposed with mapped outline of Israel in its expanded territorial area. The psychological effect is to create a "think merge" . . . for the American masses to accept the inevitability of American service men, and American aid to Israel. Inducing social sedatives to lower the fever of malcontent in the milieu of political expediency, is simply retreating
